

Vodafone Terminal Capability Definition

Appendix A Utilities TCD – MAILTO Specification (Table 2.8.6.1)

Version: 9.0.0

Owner: Rob Mitchell
Authors: Osamu Otaka

Table 2.8.6-1 MAILTO

Keywords	Supplemental Explanation
MAILTO:* (MAILTO: is single byte MAILTO is case insensitive	If this character set is identified in the text, it will be a character set to be set to the address on the e-mail sending screen (Long mail (Super mail)/ Sky mail). <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • * shall be on or more continuous ASCII alphanumeric. • The end of character set shall require the line feed code (CR/LF).
BODY: (BODY: is single byte BODY is case insensitive	If this character set is identified in the text, it will be a character set to be set to the message body on the e-mail sending screen (Long mail (Super mail)/ Sky <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • * shall be zero or more continuous ASCII code. Shift_JIS-compliant handsets shall comply with Shift_JIS. • The end of character set shall require the line feed code (CR/LF). The same shall apply to zero characters.
SUBJECT: (SUBJECT: is single byte SUBJECT is case insensitive	If this character set is identified in the text, it will be a character set to be set to the subject on the e-mail sending screen (Long mail (Super mail)/ Sky mail) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • * shall be zero or more continuous ASCII code. Shift_JIS-compliant handsets shall comply with Shift_JIS. • The end of character set shall require the line feed code (CR/LF). The same shall apply to zero characters.