

The diagram illustrates a mechanical antenna switch system. On the left, an 'internal antenna' is connected to an 'antenna matching' circuit, represented by a box containing a black rectangle and two parallel plate capacitors. This circuit is connected to a 'mechanical antenna switch' box on the right. The switch contains a lever that can be moved to connect the internal antenna matching circuit to either the 'internal antenna' or an 'external antenna'.

